Sandhurst Club Goes Public with Social Golf

Frankston's most prestigious private golf club Sandhurst has introduced Social Golf with a unique Nine and Dine program which will see public golfers able to play nine holes and have a meal for $38.

The private club will open its two championship courses to the public from Friday 12 June 2009.

Bill Laird, General Manager of Sandhurst said the Nine and Dine program is designed to provide time poor executives or other members of the community who cannot spend a day on the course the flexibility to package their golf experience comfortably into half a day.

"With Nine and Dine we are also targeting people who may like to try out golf in a relaxed social format as a way of keeping fit or networking for business.

"One of the best kept secrets in Frankston is the fact that Sandhurst Club's restaurants and function facilities are open to the wider community."

Mr Laird said we have a full program of theme nights and events seven days a week and have introduced live music on Saturday nights, a children's movie night on Friday and a breakfast and Carvey lunch on Sunday.

"With the introduction of social golf in the Nine and Dine format Monday to Friday, golfers and their families have numerous options of becoming involved in golf and can take advantage of the Sandhurst Golf classes."

Mr Laird said the Nine and Dine program implemented by Sandhurst is about encouraging more members of the community to benefit from the millions of dollars invested in the open space and social facilities available at the Club.

Sandhurst located in the City of Frankston and close to EastLink has two championship golf courses, free parking and is open seven days a week.

Mr Laird said golfers wanting more information about the Nine and Dine program can visit the Sandhurst website www.sandhurst.com Bookings can be made by contacting the Sandhurst Golf shop on 87877011.
